Inner speech and self-awareness: Exploring the links between inner speech, thinking styles and self-reflection

Inner speech - the activity of talking to oneself in silence - is likely to be involved in numerous psychological processes. This study aims to explore the relationship between inner speech, individual thinking styles and self-reflection.

This study can be completed remotely on your laptop/desktop computer.

Email eamon.ali.20@ucl.ac.uk with your name, email address and contact number to take part.

About the study

Who can take part?

We're looking for volunteers who fit the following criteria:

- Aged 18 years or above
- Proficient in written and spoken English (e.g., mother tongue or fluent)
- No diagnosis of a language or speech disorder.

What can you expect?

Tasks

In this study, you will be asked to complete three short questionnaires and two brief reading tasks, on your laptop/desktop computer.

This can be completed remotely at your own convenience.

Reimbursement

There is no financial compensation for taking part but you can request that the study's findings are sent to you once the initial project is completed (September 2022).
